

Interpreting Your TPK™ Test Taker Score Report

- 1 This shows the name of the person who took the test.
- 2 This shows the ELTeach Identification Number of the test taker. (It is the same as the Access Code used to access the learning materials.)
- 3 This shows the Institution or Organization the test taker is identified with.
- 4 This shows the Country in which the test was taken.
- 5 If the local testing organization has assigned an identification number or code different from the ELTeach Identification Number, it will appear here.
- 6 This shows the date the test was taken.
- 7 The Total Scaled Score provides information about your overall performance on the test. The term "scaled score" means that this information has been put on a scale that allows scores across different administrations to be compared.

The graphic shows the overall range of scaled scores (from 100 to 300), three bands of performance, and your own scaled score.

- 8 Your Total Scaled Score will be above, within, or below one of the three bands. This text immediately below the graphic tells you which band(s) relate to your performance. Read all of the Band Descriptors to understand what a performance at different parts of the scale represents.
- 9 The Band Descriptors provide information about typical test taker performance at three ranges on the score scale. Each Band Descriptor explains the typical content knowledge a test taker has whose score falls into one of the three bands.
- 10 These scores provide additional information about how you performed on the test questions that measure the two content areas of the learning materials. The arrow shows how many questions you answered correctly. The percentile information shows how your performance in these areas compares to others who took the same version of the test.
